SUBARU CLIMBS TO THE CLOUDS

Subaru Rally Team USA driver David Higgins put the hurt on the long-standing Mt. Washington "Climb To The Clouds" Hill Climb record set in 1998. Power shifting his 2011 Subaru WRX STI rally car, Higgins crushed the mark set by Frank Sprongl by more than 30-seconds with an official time of 6 minutes and 11.54 seconds. The run also beat the unofficial record time set by Travis Pastrana last year of 6:20.47. Mt. Washington is located in the Presidential Range of the White Mountains in New Hampshire. Known for its extreme conditions, scientists have been researching and studying weather trends there since the 1870s. The carriage road, now the Mount Washington Auto Road, was erected in 1861 and is said to be the country's oldest man-made attraction. The 7.6-mile thoroughfare of mixed gravel and pavement winds its way up the mountain lined with trees and at times steep drop-offs. First run in 1904, the race to the 6,288 ft. summit of the Northeast's tallest peak was one of the greatest motorsports challenges for both man and machine.

ITR EXPO

Honda enthusiasts from across the county converged on Carolina Motorsports Park in Kershaw, South Carolina for ITR Expo II, to celebrate what many people acclaim as the best handling front-wheel-drive car of all time: the Integra Type R. While also being a meeting place for the owners of these cars to put a face to the names of many Internet forums, it is first and foremost a track day to allow drivers to have some space to test their car's limits while still being in a safe and controlled environment. ITR Expo is truly a nationwide event, as cars from as far as Washington came to the South Carolina road course to partake in two-day's worth of friends, fun, cars and driving fast. While the event itself is centered around the Integra Type R, the track days were open to anyone willing to sign up. — Chris Mills

M7 SHAKES DOWN WITH NO ONE BETTER

M7 has been making a lot of noise lately, and this time, they brought in one of Japan's star drivers to help them make a little more. Nobuteru "NOB" Taniguchi was brought over to the Sepang International Circuit in Malaysia to help dial in the M7 R600-tuned '08 Nissan GT-R. Sepang

International Circuit is a F1 circuit that is known for its sweeping corners, wide straights and an unusual layout that has a very long back-straight that's separated from the pit straight by one very tight hairpin. The black GT-R with the R600 M7 tuning kit helps the VR38DETT push out 613hp and 495lb-ft, and at the hands of NOB, drove very well on its maiden voyage. "For a street car, the R600 GT-R performed well on a professional circuit," he said. "There's a nice increase in power response, and handling of the M7 Super Dampers are very good. Overall, the R600 is very well suited for street use." It's without question that the M7 R600 upgrade maintains the GT-R's ability to drive on the street but still gives it a well-deserved punch when it's time to hit the track. — Gwen Leong
